47 VOTE FOR COMMISSION

Resolution As Drafted At Moscow Goes Through;
Byrnes Heads Home

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The United Nations voted today to set up an atomic energy commission after hearing Secretary of State James F. Byrnes advocate the withdrawal as soon as possible of allied occupation forces — including American — from all countries except Germany and Japan.

Byrnes, at a later press conference, recommended early hearings by the UNO security council for states accused of actions threatening international relations.

The United States will press tomorrow at a security council meeting for preliminary hearings immediately on three "situations" before it—Soviet charges against Britain and Iranian charges against Russia.

Forty-seven of the 51 united nations voted to adopt a resolution providing for an atomic energy commission as drafted in Moscow by the big three foreign ministers.

Byrnes, urging approval of the resolution, indirectly appealed to Russia, Britain and France to withdraw occupation forces whose presence in Iran, Greece, Indonesia and the Levant precipitated the first international accusations before the UNO.

He made it plain that his stand on the withdrawal applied to American policy on North China and Korea. In effect he put the United States on record as proposing to pull out occupation troops as soon as the surrender of Japanese forces was effected and a civilian trusteeship was set up for Korea.

Later, and just before his departure for Washington as scheduled, Byrnes proposed that the security council hear quickly the issues labeled before the UNO as threatening world peace.

Asked how he thought the problems of Iran, Greece and Indonesia should be handled, Byrnes said, "Whenever a state files a complaint against another with the security council, it must be assumed an emergency exists to justify it."

Whenever it is done, the states involved must be given a hearing, and the quicker the better. Then the security council can judge the case on its merits. That is our position on any case as to a hearing."

He differentiated sharply between a security council hearing and subsequent action the council might take.

Again he took the opportunity to deny that he and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin had disagreed on how to handle the Greek, Iranian and Indonesian problems.

The British press had said Byrnes wanted to shelve the issue. (Continued on Page Two)

Bromfield Urges Farm Rebuilding

Return To Self-Supporting Basis Would Cure Nation's Sickness, Author Says

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 24.—Re-establishment of American agriculture on a self-supporting basis is the best way to cure the "sickness" in the nation's economy, according to Louis Bromfield, who terms government subsidies "a form of economic deceit and self-deception."

The Ohio novelist, farmer and writer on agricultural subjects, told a group at the 30th annual Pennsylvania farm show meetings that America has destroyed her natural wealth more rapidly than any other country in the world's history and warned that unless this practice is halted "we shall become a third or fourth rate nation," with U. S. citizens "living at the level of the Chinese."

"In the sense of the drain upon the real wealth of the nation, lend-lease has the biggest, most generous and disastrous contribution ever made by any nation to war in the history of the world," Bromfield told the Pennsylvania Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' association last night.

The speaker contended that Britain's appeal for financial aid from the United States on the ground that the per capita cost of (Continued on Page Two)

KOREA LEADERS DENY TROUBLES

Present Government Heads
Say Charges Of Split
Communist Inspired

SEOUL, Korea, Jan. 24.—Leaders of the "provisional government" charged today that the local press reports of a split in its top ranks were "Communist inspired" and designed to prevent Korean unity.

Seoul newspapers reported that provisional vice chairman Kim Ki-uk and three others had quit Kim Koo's "provisional government" because he refused to accept the leftist.

Both Kim Koo and Dr. Syngman Rhee, former chairman of the Korean commission in Washington, branded the reports false.

Rhee said Kim Koo visited Kim Ki-uk today and learned there was no basis for the report.

Rhee blamed leftist groups for misrepresenting the facts and added that they had been increasing their activities since the opening of the commission.

COMBAT TROOPS OPPOSE LIFTING MARRIAGE BANS

FRANKFURT, Jan. 24.—Many combat troops are opposed to removal of the ban preventing Americans from marrying German women. L. Curtis Tiernan, chief of the Army chaplain corps in the European theatre, said today.

Tiernan, former Kansas City priest, said fighting soldiers object to any relaxation of non-fraternization policies on grounds that "these (German) women have been enemies and many were agents in killing our men."

He said he would be unable to offer much hope "under six or eight years" for the three ex-G.I.s who wrote President Truman asking permission to marry the frauleins they love.

Tiernan estimated that 250 to 300 soldiers have made similar requests to chaplains. "If the bars on non-fraternization were dropped entirely I guess there probably would be over a thousand getting married," he said.

The priest said the church is not concerned with fraternization policies as long as religion is not affected. He said the policy, as outlined by the joint chiefs of staff, was to keep the non-marriage ban into effect until "Germany is brought back to her senses."

GENERAL IKE BESIEGED AT LAST—BY WIVES OF GIs

A SUCCESSFUL STRATEGIST many times over, General Dwight D. Eisenhower learns what it feels like to be himself besieged. The Chief of Staff is cornered here by a group of servicemen's wives in the offices of the House Military Affairs Committee, where he was about to testify. While the ladies had their say about getting their husbands back home, the committee hearing was delayed about ten minutes. The general courteously explained why all husbands cannot be discharged immediately. (International Soundphoto)

SENATE GROUP ASKS SPEEDUP

Solons Study Report On Army
Demobilization Compared With Ike's Stand

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The senate today weighed the demands of a special subcommittee for speedier demobilization against the nation's need for troops to carry out its overseas commitments.

The subcommittee's demands were outlined yesterday in a nine-point program. It called for release of all fathers by July 1 and a continued high discharge rate. It said volunteers were the answer to the Army's manpower problems.

Senate reaction was slow in crystallizing. Most members studied the program in light of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's previous statements. He has said not more than 500,000 of the 700,000 fathers the subcommittee wants home by July could be released by then.

The chief of staff also told a group of irate wives and mothers who cornered him on Capitol Hill that the immediate release of all fathers would mean "we wouldn't have an army." Only fathers with three or more children now may apply for discharges regardless of points.

Chairman Elbert Thomas, R., Utah, of the military affairs committee said he would have no comment on the program until he had studied it further. Other committee members followed his lead.

The subcommittee's report asked for the passage of legislation, if necessary, to carry out its aims. It was issued by Chairman Edwin C. Johnson, D., Colo.; Frank P. (Continued on Page Two)

RIOTING GOES ON IN BOMBAY WITH TWO DEAD

BOMBAY, Jan. 24.—Rioting continued in Bombay's native section today after at least two persons were killed and 350 injured in clashes Wednesday between police and demonstrators.

The disturbances began when police, using firearms and clubs, attempted to break up a parade of Indian congress members, predominantly Hindu, in celebration of the 50th birthday of Subhas Chandra Bose, former party leader.

Congress party leaders, who claimed Moslem leaders had agreed to a peaceful demonstration, announced they would demand an inquiry of the police firing.

Following the police charge, mobs set fire to a military truck, government grain stores and shops. A crowd of 2,000 attacked Communist headquarters, set fire to furniture and damaged the party's printing press.

A pitched battle in front of the office resulted in injuries to two police officers, 18 constables and five demonstrators.

President Truman Seems Assured Now of Support Of Left-Wing Coalition

BY LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The most powerful element of the left-wing coalition which helped maintain Franklin D. Roosevelt's political leadership appears today to be forming its ranks behind President Truman.

Chairman Sidney Hillman of the CIO political action committee fired a message of congratulations and Hillman had more praise for the administration as he prepared to leave New York for London. Coming from Hillman in a congressional election year, those statements have real political significance.

If Hillman stays put for the 1948 presidential election it is likely that Mr. Truman's re-election campaign will be supported by the most active and politically effective elements of organized labor. Deliberately or otherwise, Mr. Truman's policies in the current labor-management crisis are proving to be just about what is necessary to persuade the CIO to continue its (Continued on Page Two)

GOVIN FACING TROUBLES WITH FRENCH CABINET

PARIS, Jan. 24.—President Felix Govin, building a fragile political structure, negotiated today to select a three-party coalition cabinet for France.

Govin hoped to announce his cabinet before nightfall. He told the constituent assembly yesterday that the job must be done quickly in the nation's interests.

Faced by predictions that his new government might not last one month, Govin tried to distribute the cabinet seats almost equally among the Communists, his own Socialists and the Popular Republicans. He appeared to be following a cabinet pattern similar to that set by his predecessor, Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Govin was confronted by a situation in which the basic differences among the three parties remained unresolved, despite the overwhelming 497 to 55 vote by which he was elected president yesterday.

His cabinet making was complicated by Popular Republican demands that the left-wing parties yield some concessions in writing the new French constitution as the price of Popular Republican participation in the Govin government.

TIMID WOMEN LET MEN PURCHASE NYLON HOSE

FITCHBURG, Mass., Jan. 24.—The women were peeved today at the men who bought the nylon stockings they had stood in line for.

Fifty persons were in the queue waiting for the nylons. Three white mice escaped from a pet shop. The women fled. The men stayed. The men bought all the nylons.

1,800,000 IDLE IN NATION AS STRIKES GO ON

More Industries Curtail
Operations As Steel
Supplies Shrink

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—President Truman said today the government must assert the power of the people in the current struggles between big industry and big labor.

He held over the steel industry the possibility of future federal seizure—although not in the early future—and inferentially called on congress again to pass the fact-finding legislation he has requested for dealing with labor disputes.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—The AFL Meat Cutters and Butchers union announced today that a statement that it had ordered its members to call off their share of the nation-wide meat strike was "in error" and that the union members should await further orders.

Upwards of 1,800,000 American workers were idle today in the nation's greatest industrial crisis as high government officials prepared to seize strikebound meat plants in an effort to end a strike of nearly 300,000 packinghouse workers.

A presidential order, officially authorizing the department of agriculture to take over plants of the major meat packers, was expected today or tomorrow. The seizure goes into effect at 12:01 a. m. Saturday.

In other reconversion threats to the national economy.

1. More industries were forced to curtail operations as a result of the walkout of 750,000 CIO steelworkers, now in its fourth day.

2. Company and union officials were scheduled to meet today in New York in an attempt to settle the ten-day strike of 200,000 members of the United Electrical Workers (CIO) against General Electric, Westinghouse and General Motors.

3. Last-minute negotiations averted scheduled strikes on the Indiana harbor belt and Chicago junction railroads, vital links in the cross-country movement of freight.

4. Workers in two electrical plants threatened to strike Monday—forcing coal mines in Kentucky and Virginia to close and throw 150,000 miners out of work—if a new contract has not been signed by then.

High administration leaders in Washington were confident that striking CIO packinghouse workers would return to work under government operation of the meat plants despite opposition to seizure.

Delegates from the meat workers' union locals meet in Chicago tomorrow to decide upon a course of action.

The seizure order, it was learned, will authorize the agriculture department to accept the wage recommendations of the government fact-finding panel now hearing (Continued on Page Two)

Strikes At A Glance

By United Press
Postwar labor disputes kept upwards of 1,800,000 workers away from their jobs today in a new all-time high. The major strikes:

Meat—The department of agriculture moved to take over the nation's strikebound meat industry and a strike of 300,000 AFL and CIO workers as meat supplies dwindled.

Steel—Additional steel users curtailed operations as a result of the walkout of 750,000 CIO steelworkers, now in its fourth day.

Strikes Postpone Delivery
Of New Household Items
Wanted So Badly

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—If you've been looking forward to delivery soon of a new radio, vacuum cleaner or some other scarce household item requiring steel in its manufacture, maybe you'd better pocket that dream for a time, Mrs. Housewife.

The vast steel strike—if it continues for any considerable period—is likely to postpone the date when you can expect to get many of these household goods.

No one can say definitely how much of a delay there's liable to be or where it will be felt the most. But at least some interruption in the flow of such merchandise is expected, according to the civilian production administration.

You may feel the strike's effects eventually in shopping for such common steel products as razor blades or nails or needles and pins.

Or perhaps you'll come smack up against it when your furniture dealer explains that the strike has cut off the supply of steel springs (Continued on Page Two)

REPUBLICANS IN ECONOMY DRIVE

GOP Launches Assault On
First Administration
Fund Request

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—House Republicans open their governmental economy drive today.

They plan an assault on the first of the administration's fund requests for the 1947 fiscal year—the $5,594,146,286 independent offices appropriation bill. The measure comes for a vote in the house this afternoon.

House Republican leader, Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, indicated economy amendments would be offered on the floor.

Martin disclosed Republican plans for the economy drive after a meeting of the house GOP steering committee.

The group is discussing the legislative strategy with which Republicans hope to capture the house in the November elections.

Martin said the committee would attempt to cut an appropriation of $4,931,142,415 for the veterans' program.

"I don't see how anything could be done with that," he said. "The chances are veterans' appropriations will grow larger in the coming years."

It was likely that the Republican (Continued on Page Two)

GENERAL SHORT IS QUESTIONED AGAIN IN PROBE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, Pearl Harbor Army commander on Dec. 7, 1941, began his third day of testimony before the joint congressional committee today.

Rep. Jere Cooper, D., Tenn., resumed questioning the deposed commander on the events leading up to the Japanese attack.

Meanwhile committee members considered the possibility of recalling Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, former chief of military intelligence, as a result of revelations in Short's testimony.

Short disclosed that: 1. Miles drafted a special message to the Panama defense command Dec. 5 promising to "inform you if and when severance of diplomatic relations imminent."

AMERICAN TEST ONLY

Other Nations May Be Given
Chance To See Results
Of 'Crossroads'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The first of three historic tests of atomic bomb blasts on naval vessels will take place early in May in a tiny ring of mid-Pacific islands, the Navy disclosed today.

The experiments, which will determine the future of navies in an age of atomic weapons, will be conducted with a "guinea pig" fleet of 100 American, German and Japanese ships and submarines.

They include four old U. S. battleships and the carriers Saratoga and Independence.

Besides the May test, to be held in the Marshall Islands, another will take place July 1 and a third sometime thereafter, probably in 1947.

American correspondents will be on hand to report to the public on the long-awaited experiment with the world's most awesome secret weapon. No representative of any foreign nation will be allowed to attend, under present plans, but this is still under discussion.

Details of the joint Army-Navy operation—known by the code name "crossroads"—were revealed today by Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy in testimony before the senate's special committee on atomic energy. Blandy will command "joint task force one"—the armada of ships and planes that will carry out the tests.

The test scheduled for "early in May," Blandy told the committee, will be held near Bikini atoll which is composed of a circular group of more than 20 islands in the Marshalls area.

Old Ships In List

He said ships to be used as atomic bomb targets in the first trial include the old battleships New York, Arkansas, Pennsylvania and Nevada; the aircraft carriers Saratoga and Independence; the heavy cruisers Salt Lake City and Pensacola; 16 destroyers and eight submarines.

In addition, 15 unidentified U. S. transports, landing craft and auxiliary vessels will be test targets.

Foreign ships to be included in the first test are the German heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen, which arrived at Boston only yesterday, the Japanese battleship Nagato and the Japanese light cruiser Sakawa.

To Explode In Air

The atomic bomb in the May test will be dropped by an Army Air Forces bomber and will be timed to explode several hundred feet above the target ships, Blandy said.

In the second test set for July 1, which also probably will be held at Bikini, the bomb will burst at the water's surface.

The third test calls for a deep underwater atomic explosion on the open seas. Blandy said technical difficulties involved in this test "will not permit its accomplishments in 1946."

The prime mission of the tests, Blandy told the committee, is to determine the bomb's effect on naval vessels "in order to gain information of value to the national defense." Ultimate results of the experiment from the Navy standpoint, he added, will be translated into terms of future U. S. seapower.

To Provide Training

Secondary purposes of the tests will be to give the Army Air Forces training in attacking naval vessels with the atomic bomb. Damage wrought by the explosions on military installations and equipment also will be determined.

Total personnel involved in the operation will be about 20,000 men. Besides the "guinea pig" fleet, 50 additional ships will be required to transport equipment to the area (Continued on Page Two) and remove crews of target ships before the bombs are dropped. Blandy assured the committee that adequate safeguards would be taken to protect men engaged in the test, observers, inhabitants of the area and chance sea and air travelers from the deadly radiation of the atomic bomb.

U. S. Experiment Alone Blandy emphasized that the tests were scientific experiments by the United States alone and not a combined or international operation. He said observers would include representatives of the U. S. military services, members of congress, the press and U. S. civilian scientific groups.

The question of inviting representatives of foreign nations and foreign news services, he added, is currently under discussion by the joint chiefs of staff, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson and Secretary of Navy James Forrestal.

"One of the most important problems in connection with these tests," Blandy said, "will be the maintenance of proper balance between public information and security."

"It is our hope to make available to science and to the public all appropriate information derived from this historic test."

Results May Be Secret

Navy officers explained that some test results might have to be kept secret because of their military value. For example, one officer noted, if all the ships are sunk, that fact would be of tremendous significance to other nations which might become future enemies of the United States.

In the first test, the bulk of the "ghost" fleet probably will be anchored in a general area some 1400 yards from a sandy beach which stretches from Bikini island, the largest in the Bikini atoll group. The navy said water in that area is about 66 feet deep. Hence, divers would have little difficulty in inspecting the remains of any vessels which might be sunk.

Blandy said the target ships for the first test will be anchored in a manner to get varying degrees of damage to the various ships of each type involved.

Some of the landing craft and auxiliary vessels will be beached. Target ships, Blandy added, "of course" will be unmanned. The admiral said all possible use will be made of available modern scientific techniques and equipment to observe, measure and record blast effects of the bomb.

He listed as an example the proposed use of "drone" pilotless planes which will patrol the fleet, obtaining close-up recordings of radio-activity. Automatic motion picture cameras will record the explosion from ingenious, heavily-shielded shelters on the island ring which surrounds the anchorage site.

To Repair Survivors

Blandy also outlined the disposal of the atom-bombed ships. Repair as well as salvage facilities will be provided to make repairs on ships after the first test. Salvage crews also would be used to make seaworthy any targets which could be returned to the United States following the second experiment and to destroy any ships which might constitute navigational hazards.

The Army Air Forces, in addition to dropping the bombs, will participate actively in the operations with regard to air transport, collection of data, observation of results and test of undisclosed air force equipment. Maj. Gen. W. E. Kepner of the AAF has been designated by Blandy as deputy task force commander for aviation.

Army ground forces will be given the opportunity to test its equipment on the target ships and ashore. Blandy did not elaborate. Maj. Gen. A. C. McAuliffe of the Army ground forces has been appointed special adviser to Blandy to direct its part in the operation.

HARRISON AREA TO BE SCENE OF DRIVE ON FOXES

Another drive to rid a section of Pickaway county of marauding fox will be held Saturday in Harrison township.

Hunters are asked to meet at Helping Hand hall in South Bloomfield at 9:30 a. m. From there they will go to the drive area. Lunch will be served by women of the South Bloomfield Methodist church. Proceeds from the sale of fox hides will go to the church.

Quarantine Lifted

Diphtheria quarantine for Amy Sampill, of near Ashville, has been lifted by the county health officer. She has fully recovered. Three children in the Sampill home, who had been immunized through the school immunization program, were not affected by the disease, Dr. A. D. Blackburn said.

Urges Farm

Rebuilding

war for her was greater than for America was "simply not true" when real wealth as well as financial expenditures were considered.

Rehabilitation of forests and agricultural land must be a primary consideration now that the war is over, he said, pointing out that one-fourth of the nation's farm land was "utterly destroyed," while less than one-sixth of the original forest acreage remained.

"American agriculture is sick," Bromfield warned, "and the sickness pervades the whole of our economy. Its condition is growing worse, not better. It is an agriculture of declining production per acre and increasing production costs per acre."

"Our record production during the war years was the most expensive production of food and farm commodities in the history of the world, because most of it was squeezed from already worn-out or non-agricultural land at low production per acre."

Subsidizing "plus high prices plus shortages," he said, was the sign of a "kept agriculture" which ultimately would lead to the "living standards and diet of the Chinese," Bromfield said.

Briggs, D. Mo., and Chapman Revercomb, R., W. Va.

The report was drawn up following extensive hearings on the demobilization program last week, including personal appearances by Eisenhower and acting secretary of war Kenneth C. Royall.

The report challenged Army plans for getting draftees home and building up a volunteer army, pointing out that the Navy was meeting "practically all" of its replacement needs with volunteers.

It said the Army, "with the necessary effort," could do the same. If the subcommittee's demand that the Army maintain the present discharge rate were met, it would mean that men would be discharged at the rate of 1,000,000 a month. The Army had planned to cut that to about 500,000 a month.

The subcommittee also urged the Army to start enlisting WACS again to get manpower for separation centers and to employ civilian help for the Army's housekeeping jobs.

WALTER CUMMINS FINED

ON BLACK MARKET CHARGE

Walter Cummins, Ashville, has been fined $500 and placed on one-year probation by federal court at Columbus after pleading guilty to two counts made against him in an indictment for alleged selling of tires on the black market.

Cummins was arrested in June of 1946 after OPA men reported they had purchased a tire from him without having a tire rationing certificate. Sheriff Charles Radcliff was called to testify in the court on the case.

membership in the new deal-Democratic coalition.

Hillman's telegram to the President congratulated him on the labor program proposed in the message to congress Monday. The message asked again for fact-finding boards to prevent strikes. It proposed a general hike in industrial wage scales without general price increases. Hillman promised Mr. Truman the political action committee's "fullest support."

Hillman master-minded the 1944 labor campaign to prevent Mr. Truman's nomination for vice president by the Democratic national convention. In penthouse headquarters at the Morrison hotel, Hillman directed the fight for Henry A. Wallace, Cabinet member and other political big shots came to the penthouse, sometimes up the backstairs, to be informed of the strategy of the next day or hour.

It will not be easy for Mr. Truman to forget nor for Hillman to swallow the hard words of that convention battle. But even that would be easier than to ignore the fact that the Democratic party will have small chance of success in this year's congressional elections or in 1948 without the active support of Hillman's organization.

There are indications that CIO President Philip Murray is eyeing the Truman bandwagon. Murray has been consistently critical of Truman administration policies. Six weeks ago he denounced the "President on charges of seeking to 'weaken and ultimately to destroy union organizations.' Murray was protesting against Mr. Truman's fact-finding proposals which would impose a 30-day cooling off period before strikes.

But Murray has found Mr. Truman's decisions in the steel crisis satisfactory and is willing to accept them. He wants more money for his union members and the President says the demand is a just one. The CIO automobile workers also have gone along with the President.

After wavering between the White House and congress, the anger of labor seems to be centering now on Capitol Hill where the southern Democrats are opposing the President on his social and labor legislation program in general. One of the questions political observers frequently ponder these days is this: could a Democratic presidential candidate in 1948, running on a platform satisfactory to organized labor and with a running mate similarly acceptable, also expect to enjoy the support of southern conservatives?

There is speculation on matters of that kind. But there is no doubt among practical politicians here many of the winning votes lie this year and in 1948. The "National Republican" put it this way in a survey some months ago:

"The Republican party must recapture the strength it once possessed in the industrial sections of the nation if it is to win a majority of the voters in the national elections of 1946 and 1948."

The big city and industrial vote is the prize at stake. Hillman and Murray have demonstrated that they control much of it.

can amendments would be aimed chiefly at such appropriations as the $267,838,792 for the public roads administration and the $235,388,000 for the civil service commission.

The entire budget for 1947 fiscal year came under fire again yesterday. Rep. John Taber, N. Y., ranking Republican on the house appropriations committee, contended that if the budget is not balanced in 1947 "it is going to be difficult ever to do it."

BYRNES URGES WITHDRAWAL OF ARMED FORCES

U. S. Secretary Wants All Occupation Troops Moved Out Of Countries

sues while Bevin wanted an immediate showdown. Byrnes said the matter never had been discussed.

Byrnes' return to Washington is in keeping with plans made before his arrival here to leave as soon as the atomic energy resolution had been adopted. Edward R. Stettinius Jr. will be chairman of the U. S. delegation in Byrnes' absence, and representative on the security council. Sen. Tom Connally, D., Tex., will represent the United States on the steering committee.

There was only nominal opposition to the atomic energy resolution by the Philippine delegation, which abstained from voting.

The resolution created a commission to study and recommend possible international control of atomic energy. Membership of the commission will consist of the 11 security council members plus Canada, and will take instructions from the security council.

Byrnes appealed for all-out efforts for international control of atomic energy, denounced unilateral political action and appealed for immediate action to convert the world from an "armed camp" to a peaceful world.

Byrnes said the atomic energy plan anticipates international control of atomic energy, but he reiterated indirectly the American position that no atomic secrets will be divulged until adequate safeguards have been devised by the UNO to prevent use of atomic energy for mass destruction.

The world cannot return to peace as long as it remains an "armed camp," Byrnes said.

"There will be a need for the continuation for some time to come of armies of occupation in Germany and Japan, but it will not make for a peaceful world to have armies of occupation remain in countries which we hope will soon join us in the united nations."

This was a direct appeal to the big powers to withdraw troops not only from such places as Greece and Iran, which already are UNO members, but also from eastern European countries which were former enemies.

Withdrawal of troops would solve the three situations facing the UNO security council. Soviet Russian and the Soviet Ukraine have complained about the presence of British troops in Greece and Indonesia, and Iran has filed a complaint against the activity of Russian troops in Iran.

C. OF C. MEMBERS ARE VOTING ON 1946 DIRECTORS

Twenty-two of Circleville's businessmen are candidates for election to the 1946 board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Of the 22, one-half or 11 will be elected.

Balloting will end January 31 and members are urged to get their ballots in. More than one-half of the ballots have been received, Mack Parrett, secretary, announced.

The candidates, announced Thursday by Secretary Parrett, are as follows:

Karl Mason, L. D. May, Dan McClain, Howard McKee, Fritz Sieverts, James I. Smith, Jr., Dwight Steele, Boyd Stout, Clark Will, Elliott White and James Yost.

The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held early in February and plans are underway to secure an outstanding speaker for the occasion, Mr. Parrett said.

needed for mattresses and overstuffed davenport and chairs.

And, if you've been counting on some new electrical appliances soon, you're likely to find that you have the nationwide strike of electrical workers to reckon with, too.

Radios, electric refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, ranges, clocks, irons and fans are some of the household commodities which are turned out by the combined work of these strike-bound industries.

The CPA recently announced it expected that by next June 30 manufacturers would be shipping these items at the 1941 monthly rate. Now the strikes have caused them to cancel these forecasts.

"We're not making any predictions on these items now," said Winston A. Bryant, chief of the CPA's consumer durable goods branch.

During the war the steel industry concentrated on producing heavy types of steel needed for munitions. Bryant explained, and greatly reduced its output of light gauge and strip type steel required for most consumer items.

Reconversion was in progress, but had not been completed when the strikes hit. This left manufacturers of steel consuming products with lower than normal reserves.

December surveys of the alarm clock industry, for instance, indicated that Christmas that production was 75 per cent of its normal peacetime rate.

Bryant said that the CPA has no way now of judging the effect of the strikes upon industries, but he expected more reports like that of the national association of ice refrigerators manufacturers. This group said that, because of lack of steel, they will be forced to shut down in about a week.

Meantime, Bryant urged that prospective buyers give their dealers a break and just resign themselves to postponing for a time that hoped-for delivery of some new household item.

BOY OF 14 IS ARRESTED FOR BEING DRUNK

Arrest of a 14-year-old school-boy on a charge of being drunk was among the five arrests made Wednesday night and Thursday morning by the Circleville police.

The boy was arrested at 2 a. m. Thursday on West Main street. At 2:30 a. m. Harry Woods, 32, truckdriver of New Holland, was arrested at a local hotel and held for investigation in connection with the boy being drunk.

Two arrests on charges of being drunk and disorderly were made at 9 p. m. Wednesday. One other person was arrested at 1:20 a. m. Thursday and charged with being drunk and disorderly.

The 14-year-old child is being held in the county jail. It was learned that he is a ward of the Chillicothe court.

Annual Convention

Many Circleville and Pickaway county ministers will be present during the 27th annual Ohio pastor's convention, sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches, at Columbus January 28-31. Fourteen of the nation's outstanding clerical leaders will speak on the conference theme "Vision After Victory". Dr. B. F. Lamb, executive secretary of the council has announced.

More than 1900 pastors representing every denomination and every county in the state have already registered. Dr. Lamb said, indicating a new high in convention attendance.

Climax of the four-day program will be a fellowship supper, Tuesday evening, January 30, at which Dr. Walter W. Van Kirk, one of four American Protestant leaders sent to Japan to contact Japanese Christians, will speak on "My Interview with Hirohito" and Dr. Herbert Geisler, German refugee, who spent last summer in Germany on an official U. S. government mission, will talk on "What I saw in Germany".

Other convention high points include the finals in the Prince of Peace declamation contest; a fellowship supper for town and country pastors held for the first time in a Negro church; and a two-hour discussion session on labor and peace problems, led by Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America and Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of Christ Church, New York City, and preacher on the "National Radio Pulpit".

Speakers scheduled to address the convention and their subjects are: Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam on "Do The Political Practices of Roman Catholicism Constitute A Threat to Religious Liberty?"; "United Protestantism in Action" and "The Church and Labor"; George G. Shurtz, senator from Newcomerstown, Ohio, on "Lamentations of a Legislator"; Dr. William A. Shimer, president of Marietta College, on "Christian Higher Education or Unemployment and War"; Dr. Ralph W. Sockman on "What is Victory?"; "More Than Conquerors"; and "New Horizons"; Dr. Rockwell C. Smith, associate professor of Rural Church Administration and Sociology at Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill., on "Rural America and a Hungry World"; Rabbi Solomon B. Freehof, of Rodef Shalom Temple, Pittsburgh, on "The Church in an Atomic Age"; Dr. Roy Ewing Vale, pastor of Tabernacle Presbyterian Church, Indianapolis; Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga., on "The Role of the Church in an Atomic Age"; Dr. D. Elton Trueblood, professor of Philosophy of Religion at Stanford University, Stanford, Calif., on "The Recovery of America"; Dr. James W. Clarke, pastor of Second Presbyterian Church, St. Louis, on "The Preacher's Emphasis for this Time" and "Resurrection of America"; and Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of St. Nicholas Collegiate Church, New York City on "The Minister and His World" and "The Minister and His Gospel".

Music for the convention will be furnished by the Columbus Boy-choir and the Wooster College Girls' chorus. R. Lincoln Cole, pastor of Collingwood Avenue Presbyterian Church, Toledo, will be chairman of the convention.

BOGGS STATES MANY PACKERS WANT LIVESTOCK

There is still an outlet for the marketing of considerable livestock, according to information received from the United States Department of Agriculture by John Boggs, chairman of the Pickaway county AAA committee.

Apparently, farmers in general have not realized that the packers' strike has tied up only about 60 per cent of the federal inspected meat processors, and that the balance of the industry is still in operation. Reports indicate that these operating processors are not receiving a sufficient supply of live animals for their kill. It is imperative that they have as much livestock as they can possibly slaughter, and producers with stock ready for market should take every advantage of available facilities, Mr. Boggs said.

Farmers are, however, advised to be cautious and to check with their commissionmen or other marketing agent to make sure that they have an outlet for their livestock before it is moved from the farm.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 5 quarts a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatism, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with burning and stinging sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ARMY RESERVE CORPS GROWING

More Than Half Of Officers Enrolling; 2 Per Cent Of Enlisted Men

BY REUEL S. MOORE

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—Enrollment of officers and enlisted men in the Army Reserve Corps is steadily mounting, an indication that the Army's reserve organization will play an important peace-time defensive role.

More than half of the officers and more than 2 per cent of enlisted men in the Army of the United States are enrolling on separation.

Of the 434,452 officers separated from the Army by Jan. 6, about 150,000 were already recorded in Washington on the officer reserve corps roster. Most of the reserves enroll at separation centers, and some even later, so Washington records lag behind the actual enrollment.

Best estimates are that about 55 per cent of officers are now enrolling upon separation, with another 5 to 10 per cent thereafter.

Enlisted reserve corps records in Washington showed 113,619 names on Dec. 31.

Tentative plans for the army's peacetime defense organization contemplate a regular army of 500,000, a National Guard of 750,000 and 3,250,000 reserves.

Normally commissioned strength runs about 10 per cent of a force. Thus the reserves would require 325,000 commissioned officers. At the present rate of enrollment more than sufficient officers would be available among wartime Army officers.

Similar calculations would indicate about 250,000 veteran enlisted men will sign up on separation, far short of needs. When the reserve commences its active training program, however, per diem pay and other inducements may persuade others to join.

Army planners expect the bulk of the enlisted reserve to come from the 700,000 15-year-olds expected to be trained annually under the projected universal training program. Several years would be needed to bring the enlisted reserve up to contemplated strength.

The Army expects to meet normal attrition in reserve officers with an annual intake of 35,000 ROTC graduates and universal trainees who graduate from officer candidate schools.

Three reserve categories are planned. Officers and men in the first category would be assigned to full strength reserve units and would train probably 15 evenings during the year and put in from 15 to 30 days active duty annually.

Units in the second category would have complete officer personnel but only cadres of enlisted men, and probably would train seven nights and perform 15 days active duty yearly. Third category units would have only officer personnel who would do 15 days duty once every three to five years.

Reserve officers would have to train and study sufficiently to maintain "age in grade," that is, to advance in proportion to their age. Otherwise they would be assigned to the so-called "inactive reserve."

In emergencies, the three categories would be called in order. First category units obviously would be ready first for combat service.

Reserve organizations will use existing Army installations, National Guard installations or in some instances perhaps new installations, as circumstances warrant.

Under these plans first category reserve organizations would approach very closely prewar National Guard organizations in the amount of training done.

A BALANCED BUDGET

WHEN President Truman in his budget message showed that a balanced budget was within sight, it was startling to the nation. For the first time since 1930 expenditures can be trimmed to keep somewhere near the total receipts. The balance is not possible for the current fiscal year, known as 1946, which ends June 30 next. At that time there will be a deficit of about $30,000,000,000. But some people think a balance is possible for the fiscal year of 1947, certainly by 1948. The advantage of the president's reporting the estimates of the Bureau of Budgets in January, for the year that begins July 1 next, is that it gives Congress six months to consider them and write in expenditures.

The budget itself is something quite beyond the ken of most people. It is a volume as big as New York's Manhattan telephone directory, containing on every page a solid mass of figures, column after column. But the idea of balancing it, or the possibility of such an accomplishment in the near future, is stimulating to post-war trade and business reconstruction. It concerns the welfare of every man and woman in the United States, inasmuch as it has a direct influence on prices, wages and jobs available.

THE ATHENIA

WHAT the Allied world knew all the time but could not prove has now come out—that the Cunard passenger liner Athenia was sunk by the Nazis, with loss of more than 100 lives, that first day of the war, Sept. 3, 1939. At the trials in Nuremberg a crew member named Schmidt testified to the sinking. His commander, subsequently killed in action, forced him to sign a statement swearing before foe or friend he would keep secret and erase from his mind all events of the day.

At the time the Germans tried to make it appear that the sinking was due to a bomb placed in the ship by Churchill as a means of getting the United States into the war. The former prime minister, vacationing in sunny Florida, must have read the news of Schmidt's confession with some satisfaction.

This provides one more bit of evidence that the Nazi minds were stupid—they thought they could fool the world as easily as they did the German people.

"Iran indeed is gone, with all his rose," wrote Fitzgerald in his Omar poem. Now we read sadly that "Russian Quarrel Grets UNO Delegates" and the rose turns to rows.

This is "the winter of our discontent", with nearly everybody complaining but that doesn't do any good.

Senator Carl Hatch of New Mexico

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:
Up to another cold morning and thought turned to comment heard the day before as to the great difference between the "dry" cold of northern regions and the so-called "wet" cold of hereabouts. In fact had listened to a very "learned" discussion of the subject by a visiting salesman. Heard him tell how he really enjoyed 20 below in Minnesota and almost froze to death at 20 above in Ohio. And all the time I was mentally commenting "bosh." For I have experienced zero weather in a dozen or more states and everywhere it was zero cold and no more. And don't let anyone tell you that ten below is colder in Ohio than in the Northwest or Canada. It just isn't. The difference—and the only difference—is that in the really cold regions one dresses for the weather. Here we wear the same weight clothing Summer and Winter. One does not do that where the temperature drops to 50 below as I have seen it do on many occasions. No, indeed.

Greatly "cheered" by an item in the prints that the per capita national debt this year is "only" $1,935. That makes a little short of $6,000 for my family. Considering the families unable to pay I figure my share is at least $30,000. I think I am just beginning to understand why the government proposes to take care of everyone in old age. It will have to if we keep on with our national spending and Uncle Sam collects. Only a small percentage of families accumulate $30,000 in savings before dad burns out. Oh well, leave it to Washington to figure out some way to take care of all of us and win our votes. Nuts!
Heard how homemade bombs are really working over the crow pests out near Pratt, Kans. Buckshot are packed around a stick of dynamite. The bombs are placed in crow roosts during the day and are exploded by electrical controls at night after the pests have come home to roost. Last week 400 of the gadgets killed 200,000 crows over a 15,000 square yard area near Pratt.

Met Charlie Gilmore and Percy Lawrence on their way to the courthouse and carrying a check for a Columbus and Southern Ohio half year tax bill. Only $27,000. The N. & W. railroad pays more in tax, but the valuation of its property in Pickaway county is not as great. The C. & S. O. E. is just fortunate in having about $6,000,000 of its property in Harrison township where the tax rate is low. Both Charlie and Percy were smiling, something I couldn't do under the same circumstances.
Out and around the village until late afternoon when I cranked the wagon and headed for the country, glad for the passing of another day and entirely ready for a quiet evening which did make even quieter at 10 o'clock by going to bed.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—At approach of the British so-called "loan" dispute in congress, the most popular British figures are suddenly arriving in this country—Mr. Churchill, Lady Astor, labor party floor leader Herbert Morrison (who addressed the press club here sotto voce), food minister Sir Ben Smith, and a rumor was started that the weight of Princess Elizabeth might be added to this homely, friendly appeal.

The administration is bestirring itself, in a fearing way also. Messrs. Vinson and Acheson have belabored the airwaves with demands for congressional approval, implying that civilization depends again on this question, as it has so many times on agreements negotiated by the administration in the recent past. They are all scared.

The reason is a vast popular antagonism to the deal which is being made apparent to senators and representatives in letters, telegrams and otherwise.

The careful two-way analysis of newspaper opinion reported December 15, that 57 percent of the press supported the loan and 29 percent disapproved, but by January 12 this press barometer had turned around to the point where 62 percent condemned it.

The defenders are having a hard time to justify the program in the preliminary debate. The defense theory is that the loan is necessary to establish credits for Britain to buy in this country, but the agreement allows the British to do whatever they wish with the money. They can buy here or not.

The second major point of the defense is that the deal represents a legitimate loan with interest. But the agreement provides no interest will start for five years by which time anything may nullify the obligation; and after that no interest will be paid unless British trade reaches pre-war levels (specifically 1936-38 average). It plainly indicates Britain must get back her trade if she is to pay any interest.

The only point the defense has thus far proved for sure is that Britain wants the money to re-establish herself financially. Against this contention, critics see the British socialist government has already bought the Bank of England, and is coming forward now with a plan to buy the coal mines.

To buy the bank, the government gave the stockholders new special government bonds which seemed to guarantee the high value of the stock, but the trick in that was the bonds were given a special category, which will enable the government to treat them in any special way, apart from the government debt in any future financial pinch.

The plan for government purchase of the coal mines has not yet been defined. No one has said definitely how much they will cost, but special bonds are to be issued, and kept in a special category, their value depending on Britain's future financial condition.

Well, anyway, when the newspapers themselves get jammed up in strikes, people seem to appreciate them more.

Symptoms and Treatment for Three Main Groups of Anemia

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MANY people think that just because a person is pale, he is suffering from anemia or a lessening of the coloring in the blood. However, anemia may not be present, for the pallor or paleness that is seen may come from other causes. Fortunately, a physician can quite easily diagnose anemia by means of a simple examination of the blood.

There are three main groups of anemia. One group is due entirely to a deficiency of iron in the body, and is known as hypochromic anemia. The second group is due almost entirely to long-continued infections and is known as mild normochromic anemia.

Severe Group

A severe normochromic anemia, the third group, may be due to infection, nephritis, or chronic kidney inflammation, destruction of red blood cells from various causes and to two conditions known as pernicious anemia and aplastic anemia.

Long-continued bleeding is the most common cause of anemia due to a deficiency of iron, or hypochromic anemia. In men, this bleeding is usually from the stomach or bowel due to piles, ulcer, or cancer. In women, bleeding from the stomach and bowel also occurs, but bleeding from the uterus or womb causes many more cases of anemia in women.

In anemia caused by bleeding, of course, the most important part of the treatment is to determine the cause for it and remove it. Operation is necessary in some cases when there is excessive bleeding from the uterus. X-ray treatments also may be helpful.

In addition, the diet should contain a liberal quantity of protein foods, such as meat, milk, and eggs, as well as those rich in iron, such as vegetables and whole-grain cereals. Iron-containing preparations such as iron and ammonium citrate or ferrous sulfate are often employed.

Remove Infection

The anemias in the second group due to infections, are treated by getting rid of the infection and giving a high protein diet and iron-containing preparations. Pernicious anemia, which belongs to the third group, is treated by liver or liver extract. In some anemias, such as aplastic, in the third group, there is no treatment which has proven to be of any particular avail.

Once anemia is found to be present, a careful search is made for the type and the cause. Then, effective treatment may be employed.

THE BIRTHDAY MURDER

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

IT WAS while Victoria was waiting for Tuck to arrive that Albert's birthday gift came. She had half forgotten that he had ordered something for her that last night of his life, and the small, much stamped package was at first a surprise, although she realized almost immediately what it must be. Hazel, who had opened the door and had received the package, hovered close while Victoria tore off the twine, the wrappings. Inside was a white box, and inside that, wedged with tightly stuffed tissue, was a jeweler's box. A small, hump-backed one of black velvet. She pressed the catch with her thumb and the lid sprang up. Inside was the most beautiful ring she had ever seen. A sapphire, her birthstone, square-cut and of a deep, deep blue. It was set in platinum, and on either side glittered a clasp of small perfect diamonds. A tiny card was bent into the rounded lid of the box. It said, not in his handwriting, "Love, Albert." The jeweler's name was in gold on the white satin of the lid. The ring had come from Tiffany's, from New York.

She slipped the slim band on the finger where her wedding ring shone. It fitted perfectly.

"Oh!" gasped Hazel. "Oh, my, what a beautiful thing!" She heard Albert's dead voice speaking in the hall. "Send to Mrs. Hime, above address." She turned her hand. The ring gleamed and glittered. "He always said I had beautiful hands," Victoria said, in a tight voice.

It was Hazel who began to cry. She fled to the kitchen as the doorbell rang. Victoria admitted Mr. Tuck. The impact of the gem which she felt so strangely heavy on her hand was still with her. Tuck asked courteously, "What has happened, Mrs. Hime?"

Victoria held out her hand to him. He took the tips of her cold, slim fingers in his long, warm ones, bent his long head to peer at the ring. "Albert wired for this, for me, for my birthday. It just came. Isn't it lovely?"

Tuck nodded his head. "It's very beautiful," he said. And then he poured out—Sawn's serenade, hearing Albert sending the telegram, Sawn's brief vigil in the early morning; a strange conglomeration of unrelated facts. Then she showed him the anonymous note.

"You think Harris sent this?" Tuck asked.

"I don't know! But I do know this: He is going to come to you and tell you he thinks I killed Albert. He's going to tell you why he thinks so, specious reasons, which may sound true to you. I'm sure of that much, at least!"

Tuck looked down at the square envelope in his hands, stuffed it carefully into the inner pocket of his coat. "I think this was written by a woman," he said.

Victoria heard, yet did not hear. She said: "I'm afraid, Mr. Tuck. For the first time in my life, I'm afraid." Saying the words eased her.

"Of Captain Harris?"

"Yes. Of him, or—of someone." Under his probing grave eyes she turned sharply away. "I sound like a fool." Then she faced him, holding out the hand with the ring. "Whatever anyone says to you, does it look as though Albert and I hated each other? Does it look as though we quarreled?"

Hazel's voice called, "Mr. Tuck!" She was standing in the kitchen doorway, a white dish towel in her hands. With her head high, she said: "I COULD have made that mistake with the poison, Mr. Tuck. If it's that or Victoria killing him, then I did it!"

Tuck looked at her long and curiously, and at the ring. "And Victoria's tense face. Then he smiled almost sadly. "You two women do me an injustice," he said, slowly and carefully. "I make guesses. I have intuitions. I am not a strictly logical man."

His long and tired brown eyes were on Victoria's when he added: "Logic tells me nothing; a guess tells me that Hazel didn't accidentally poison the sugar; an intuition, a feeling which is very bothersome tells me that you are right in being afraid, Mrs. Hime."

He had left the house and was standing on the porch as he added: "The Los Angeles Police department is more trying than most. I believe I may be getting ulcers of the stomach."

An hour later a mechanic returned Albert's car from the garage which had picked it up. Only after he had gone did she realize she had allowed him to leave it in the driveway where it would prevent her driving her own car to the street. Of course, there was no reason why she should not use Albert's, it was much handsomer than hers, which was of a popular make. But Albert's long black phaeton used a great deal more gasoline and was hard to park. So she backed Albert's car out to the street, parked it, and then drove Albert's into the depths of the deep but narrow garage. As she snapped off the ignition she realized that she had never before driven Albert's car; it seemed strange to be doing so now after he was dead. It seemed almost an intrusion.

She opened the glove compartment to see whether he might have left in it anything of importance, but found only a map, a pair of shabby pigskin gloves and a magazine. After she had returned her car to the garage she went up the steps of the house looking at the magazine. It was the New Yorker, the last issue but one. It was opened halfway through; the first band, and nullifies every blessing. —Pestalozzi.

That assured the killing of East's second major suit ace. Farther along South lost two tricks in clubs, but they were all, so he made his contract.

Against the kind of bidding South had done, with his diamond jump over East's double, and then his hop from North's 3-No Trumps into 5-Diamonds, East should have been amply warned of the danger to his aces. A more astute player would have taken no chances of having South make the contract the way he did, when the play of three very quick aces at the outset would have set it.

North's 3-No Trumps would have been easy to make, but the 5-Diamonds proved more profitable because of the combination of East's double and his play. NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

The people, through their government, already control the Bank of England, direct interest rates and all financial matters of the nation. They also control the price of coal, the wages of the miners, collect taxes from that business. Thus the people are buying what they already mastered in their own interest.

This is the basic absurdity of the new British type of labor socialism, as many of our reasonable people see it. It forces the peoples' government to assume added obligations to buy something they can already direct for their own best purposes.

Coal is about the only natural resource Britain has. Its production has never been especially profitable and its wage scale has been woefully deficient as compared with our (some recent figures suggested our general wage scale may be two and one-half times that of the British).

When the government buys the mines, the profits, if any, must go to pay for them, to those who own them, thus making not the slightest economic difference. Any improvement in conditions of the miners can be accomplished only at the expense of the people through higher prices or the government taking losses. So under this socialism, as under capitalism, the people would pay the bill.

Socialists somehow cling to the unreasonable notion that profits are a pile of money to be divided if they can get control, whereas profits really are constantly varying returns, dependent wholly upon the volume of business done, its efficiency, salesmanship, costs of materials and a great many factors other than wages.

What the coal mines make will depend upon what business the Socialists can do with them. For these reasons, British purposes seem to us totally confused.

But the underlying and main valid objection to the "loan" is that it is simply a $3,750,000,000 cover for the total wiping out, erasing and forgetting the $25,000,000,000 which the British owe us from lead-lease.

You will recall Mr. Roosevelt sold "lend-lease" to this country as a proposition where fire had broken out in a neighbor's house, and we had to furnish him the hose. When the fire was out, of course, he would give back the hose.

Mr. Roosevelt thought he was actually lending and leasing the equipment and money, expecting to get back material "in kind," if not the same material. He said so. The agreement so provided.

If the British could not give us back a tank for one of ours which they had used, they could give us something else—some of those raw materials of their far-flung empire in which we are so deficient (the list of strategic materials of which we have no stockpiles), or their islands approaching our shores or bases around the world.

But Mr. Vinson says these things were not even considered, and he seemed to think it would have been wrong for us even to mention these matters to the British, because they asked for a loan and wanted it considered separately after other related questions.

Many congressmen naturally think our negotiators went into the thing on the wrong basis, that they merely took the British viewpoint.

The most important part of the loan agreement, then, is that there is to be no repayment "in kind" for lend-lease, or any other payment except $50,000,000 to $700,000,000 of additional assumed debt by the British which may or may not be paid years hence.

We are not even getting back the material we have given which the British do not need and may not want. Our war department has taken the attitude that we already have too much surplus material. We do not want the old planes and tanks for scrap, or for any purpose.

Thus it has come about that the whole of lend-lease has been thrown out of the category into which Mr. Roosevelt placed it for reasonable returns and has been cancelled arbitrarily as was the last war debt, although it involves ten times more money.

SALT CREEK COPS 40-19 CONTEST FROM JACKSON 5 'SHAKEUP' ON

Reports Say Stuhldreher, Waldorf May Quit Posts In Near Future

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—The Big Ten coaching fraternity, usually the most stable in the country, was undergoing a surprising "shakeup" today with three new coaches installed in less than a month and a couple more expected in the near future.

The latest turnover is at Iowa where Joe Sheeketski, former Notre Dame backfield star, has been appointed line coach under Dr. Eddie Anderson, his old boss.

For six years, Sheeketski was Anderson's assistant at Holy Cross taking over when "Doctor Eddie" departed for Iowa.

The Sheeketski-Anderson reunion at Iowa City leaves big Jim Harris, who built Iowa's prewar lines, including the 1939 "Ironman" wall, on the outside looking in.

Sheeketski's arrival in the Big Ten, after coaching Notre Dame backs last fall, plus basketball coach "Piggy" Lambert's resignation at Purdue and the double re-signing of Carroll Widdoes and Paul Bixler pulled at Ohio State 22 days ago apparently is just the start of the Big Ten suitcase shuffle.

The next job swapping is scheduled for Indiana where, tall, silver-haired Branch McCracken has returned from three years in the Navy to take over the Hoosier basketball team at the close of this season. Harry Good, who has had little luck with wartime Hoosier material, probably will return to little Indiana Central college at Indianapolis.

Powerful Northwestern alumni groups are back sniping at Lynn Waldorf, the old Syracuse all-American tackle who is preparing to start his 12th season at nearby Evanston. Northwestern's only championship under Waldorf was in 1936 and alumni reportedly are threatening him with the tailend of a 10-year plan—"produce or else in '46."

Reports persist, although unconfirmed, that Harry Stuhldreher, the last of Notre Dame's "four horsemen" still active in the coaching business, will resign as Wisconsin's head coach soon and devote full time to his athletic director's job.

The conservative Big Ten and its coaches haven't sweated through such a "shakeup" for years although the conference still maintains its low average of "fired" coaches. Of the recent switches, Harris is the only man who might come under that class and Bob Zuppke of Illinois was the last Big Ten coach to be definitely ousted, retiring under pressure in 1941.

The Big Ten coaching picture: Illinois: Football—Ray Elyot, 4 years; Basketball—Doug Mills, 9 years; Indiana: Football—Branch McCracken, 7 (including three-year leave); Basketball—Dave McMillan, 16 years; Wisconsin: Football—Harry Stuhldreher, 10; Basketball—Bud Foster, 12.

The richest silver-lead deposits in the world are located at the Broken Hill mines in Australia.
